

This is a vertical, high-contrast, black and white image. It appears to be a scan of a physical object, possibly a sword or a piece of wood, showing a textured, elongated form. The top of the image features a dark, irregular, and somewhat jagged shape, which could be a hilt or a knot. The rest of the image is a long, narrow strip with a grainy, textured appearance, suggesting a surface that has been scanned at a high resolution. The overall image is very dark and noisy, with a lot of black and white speckling.
